

Tour a 100-Year-Old English Country Manor Updated for Modern Family Living

Dering Hall

For this English country manor on the outskirts of London, interior designer Rachel Laxer created a relaxed yet elegant look that complements the home's beautiful windows, intricate plaster ceilings and original wood detailing.

Laxer was careful to respect the home's history and architecture while making it feel modern moving in. For the entry hall, she paired floral drapery from Robert Kime that brings a traditional touch to the more modern lines of the red leather bench and black-and-white photograph.
